5.Explain the factors that led to the decline of the Mali kingdom.

A. Weak and incompetent leaders: The death of Suleiman began a period of forty years of constant civil war and changes of kingship.

B. Big size: At the height of its glory, the Mali Empire was very extensive, comprising many provinces which were inhabited by different ethnic groups.

C. Disunity: Mali had diverse cultures and religions which contributed to its downfall. The leaders of Mali failed to unite Moslems with Non-Moslems and vassal states with different ethnic groups.

D. Succession disputes: Mali Empire declined because of conflicts that originated from succession wars among the sons of king and other officials who were fighting for throne

E. Decline in strength of the army: because of constant wars, lack of Motivation, the strength of army declined and it could no longer defend and expand the empire.

F. Agricultural decline: agriculture declined because of the frequent wars. The people were affected by those wars and suffered from hunger, hence the collapse of the Empire.

G. Economic bankruptcy: the empire of Mali declined because Mansa Kanka Musa, carelessly, sold and extravagated gold and even gave it for free at a big extent.

H. Decline in trans-Saharan Trade

I. Rise of Songhai Empire

J. Revolts from vassal states

6 .Define the following terms:

- a) Jihad is an Islamic “Holy War” directed against non-believers. It greatly aimed at purifying Islam, converting people to Islam in line with Sharia law. This is why they were commonly referred to as holy wars in 19th century West Africa.

- b) Caliph: This was the chief Muslim civil and religious ruler, regarded as the successor of Muhammad.
- c) Hegira: This was Muhammad's departure from Mecca to Medina in 622 AD.

7.a) What does the term Trans-Atlantic slave trade mean?

- Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade was a trade between West Africa and America across the Atlantic Ocean and again across Atlantic Ocean to Europe and back to Africa.
- It was a trade between three continents (Europe, Africa and America) across Atlantic Ocean
- This trade was organized in form of triangle and because of this form it was called triangular trade.

b) List any three factors that led to the abolition of slave trade.

- Industrial revolution of 1750-1850
- Resistance of Slaves
- Role of humanitarian organizations
- Influence of French Revolution of 1789 with its ideas of Equality, Liberty and Fraternity, the declaration of right of man (all men born free and equal) this led to abolition of slavery
- Colonization of Africa
- Introduction and development of legitimate trade
- American war of independence.

8.State five external factors that speeded up the growth of African nationalism during the struggle for independence.

- Effects of the Second World War: During Second World War, the Africans who participated in WWII analyzed the weakness of the Europeans; in return they organized and trained their fellow Africans for fighting against colonialism.
- The role played by 1941 Atlantic charter: For the Atlantic charter, all people under colonial were to be given self-rule.
- The role and influence of UNO in 1945: Due to the influence of decolonization committee, the UNO became the spokesperson for colonized people and put pressure on for colonial masters to grant them independence. On other side UNO set up a decolonization committee charged with the responsibility of granting political freedom to all colonized countries.
- The rise of new super powers: After the World War II USA and USSR emerged as new super powers and had anticolonial attitudes.

- The role played by pan-African movement: Pan-Africanism is a worldwide intellectual movement that aims to encourage and strengthen solidarity between all people of African descent.
- Independence of Asian countries: The independence of India in 1947 and Indonesia in 1945 showed African leaders that it was possible to win independence for their respective countries.
- Role of Manchester conference
- Influence of western Education

9. Explain six challenges that nationalists, in South Africa, faced during the Apartheid rule.

- Disunity among the Africans
- Lack of external support
- Economic weakness of African nationalists to resist against the whites.

- Strong policies applied like land alienation
- Cruelty among the nationalists like torture. Arrests.
- Creation of the Bantustans/ forced migration.
- Disarmament of the blacks

10. Identify important manifestations of neo-colonialism that African states still face.

- Dependence on foreign aid and external industrial investments
- Collaboration with local elites Western neocolonialists have collaborated with local elites to perpetuate the exploitation of the people in Africa.
- Unfair trade terms African countries are producers of cash crops, like coffee, which serve as raw materials in developed countries.
- Influence of foreign currencies foreign currencies like dollar, pound, Euro, and Japanese Yen are used to determine the strength and value of African currencies.
- Technological dependence African countries rely on developed countries' technology.
- Military presence and intervention Most African countries have maintained close relations and cooperation with former colonial powers in military issues.
- Use of foreign political ideologies and practices
- Cultural degradation in Africa Neo-colonialism and globalization have promoted Western values in Africa: western music, language, films, literature, games, new religions.

SECTION B:

11) Compare and contrast the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi and the Holocaust.

INTROUDUCTION: Definition of Genocide

A. Similarities

- Both genocides were characterized by the identification of the targeted group.
- Dehumanization of the targeted group
- Both genocides were planned and prepared by the government in power.
- Discrimination and segregation policies.
- Both had admission of extermination of a targeted
 - Training militias i.e. interahamwe and Nazi storm Troopers
- Denial: There are mechanisms of denying the genocide committed.
- Exclusion and discrimination: the planners of Genocide implements the policies that discriminate and exclude one ethnic or social group which is targeted to be killed

B. Differences

- Rapidity (short period of time): The 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi claimed the life of more than one million people in a period of one hundred days While the Holocaust took 6yrs.
- Population participation: Many people were involved, killing their fellow citizens, their relatives and their neighbors. Killers and victims shared the same citizenship and culture.
- Involvement of government and civil society: The government agents, church members and security organs were all actively involved in the 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi.
- Failure of the international community: the international community did not intervene to stop the genocide in Rwanda while it intervened to stop the holocaust.
- It was planned, executed and stopped by Rwandans: The 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi was prepared by the then governments of the 1st and 2nd republics. While the genocide against the Jews was organized and planned by the Germans.
- Cruel and extreme forms of violence: Cruel and extreme forms of violence were used in the 1994 Genocide against Tutsi e.g. torturing victims before killing them, throwing victims in septic tanks alive, burying them alive in common graves, gathering them in churches and other places and burning them alive using gasoline, raping women before killing them, crushing babies in mortars or smashing them against walls.
- During 1994 genocide against the Tutsi there was use of Traditional weapons while Holocaust they used modern weapons.

- Jews were taken in concentration camps while the Tutsi's were killed everywhere across the country.

CONCLUSION:

12. "The explorers were the forerunners of European colonization of Africa". Justify the validity of this statement.

Introduction: 3mks. Definition of explorers, examples of explorers, period of exploration

- They mapped the economic potentials of Africa so that the future colonialists would know to establish their colonies
- They drew the map of Africa indicating the locations of the strong, hostile and humble African societies
- They located the weak kingdoms and befriended some Africans and their chiefs
- They indicated locations of African geographical features such as navigable rivers and lakes, high mountains, thick forests etc.
- They called upon their home governments to exploit Africa and for protection, leading to colonization
- They revealed to colonialists the ways of life of African people such as language, culture and all kind of African organizations
- They organized the treaty signings with some African local leaders, thereby facilitating colonization.
- They established contacts and relations between African chiefs and European colonialists.

Howver side,

Role of other agents like missionaries and chartered companies, or Traders 2mks

CONCLUSION: 2mks

13. Examine the factors that led to the rise and development of, ancient Ghana Kingdom.

Introduction: 2mks location of Ghana empire, period, founder.

- a. Its geographical location: The Empire occupied the savannah land between the rich gold-fields of Wangara and the most important of the trans-Sahara trade routes.
- b. Trans-Saharan trade: In this middle-man position, the ruler of Ghana could control and tax both the trading goods taken from North Africa to the Western Sudan (e.g. salt and horses) and those taken from the Western Sudan to North Africa (e.g. gold, ivory, kola). From this trade came wealth and with this wealth the rulers of Ghana were able to establish and maintain a reasonably efficient administration and army.

- c. The use of iron: The Soninke people were apparently the first group of people in that part of the Western Sudan to discover the use of iron. The ability to make weapons of iron was important and assisted in Ghana's military strength and growth.
- d. Fertile soils
- e. Effective administration: The Soninke built up a fairly effective large-scale government, which enabled them to rule a large area and to maintain law and order.
- f. Unity of the people: The fact that the rulers of Ghana were considered semi divine must also have helped the rise of the empire by maintaining unity and limiting the incidence of rebellion.
- g. Weak neighboring states: Ghana was surrounded the weak neighboring states so that it was easy to conquer them using strong army; well trained and equipped with iron weapons.
- h. Absence of succession disputes: Ghana rose and grew due to good succession system. this was MATRILINEAL SUCCESSION SYSTEM; where the king might be replaced by his NEPHEW. This gave chance to the expansion of the Empire.
- i. The natural protection: Ghana had the natural protection that it enjoyed from Sahara desert to the North and the thick forests to the south.
- j. Able leaders: Ghana was able to rise and grow because it had able leaders such as TUNKA MANIN and BASI who possessed great authority, respect, friendship and ability to mobilize the people into wars of expansion.
- k. Small size

CONCLUSION: 2marks

14. Examine the main reasons for European colonization of Africa.

Introduction: 3marks. Definition of colonization, identify some of the colonial masters and period.

- The need for raw materials: there was the need for raw materials to feed the European industries which had grown as result of industrial revolution. These raw materials were like rubber, cotton, gold, tin, etc. which were available in Africa.
- The growing demand of tea, coffee, sugar and cacao while Africa had fertile land for tea, coffee, cacao and sugar cane plantation.
- The desires for new markets for their manufactured products because factories were producing more goods than that people at home were able to consume.
- The need to invest the surplus capital: Factory owner had grown rich; they needed new area to invest their money.
- The need to civilize uncivilized Africans; for westerns people whose way of life and religion were different from that of Africans and considered as the best one. For instance need to stop tropical diseases; spread Christianity and introduce their culture.
- The need for more land to settle their growing population; this was caused by discoveries in heath domain which had reduce the mortality rate leading to high population growth.
- Nationalism (pride in one's country); Europeans thought that having colonies would increase their country's strength.
- The need to spread Christianity in Africa whose people were practicing the traditional religion.
- The need to decrease the unemployment rate in Europe by creating new jobs in their colonies
- Compensation; after the unification of Germany by the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-1871, France lost her productive territories i.e. Alsace and Lorraine to Germany. Thus, France was rushing to Africa for colonies and even Germany encouraged France to get territories in Africa so that she could forget Alsace and Lorraine which were taken by Germany.
- The role played by mass media which exaggerated the economic potential of Africa.
- The Berlin conference of 1884-1885 and its effects also led to the partitioning of the African continent
- Cheap and free labor; Europeans were interested in Africa to get the access of enslaving an African in his own land.
- Industrial revolutions removed to barriers which had for so longer hindered the European penetration of Africa. This was by building roads to ease transport and communication. Industrial revolution helped in discovery of quinine which improved medical care. Thus malaria was no longer a threat in Africa and therefore, this changed Africa from being "a white man's grave" and hence Europeans penetrated with less fear.
- The desire to stop slave trade led to the scramble and partition of Africa as slave trade was replaced by effective occupation.

12.Compare and contrast Italian unification with German unification.

Similarities

- Both unifications had Austria as a common obstacle in their unification struggle.
- Both unifications had the Franco-Prussian war as the final event after which they concluded the unification.
- Both unification struggles were an attempt to overthrow the arrangement of the 1815 Vienna Settlement which had put both German and Italian states under foreign domination.
- Both unifications used force and violence to accomplish the goal.
- Both unifications were held and delayed by the Metternich system where it was not possible to organise revolutions.
- In both unifications, there was one state that led the struggle. That was Piedmont in Italy and Prussia in German.
- In both unifications there was one outstanding leader who played a big role, Cavour in Italy and Bismarck in Germany.
- Both unifications were frustrated by their kings, Charles Albert of Piedmont and Frederick William I of Prussia.
- To some extent, all the unifications used diplomacy by their leaders; Bismarck and Cavour.
- Both unifications were achieved in the same year: 1871.

Differences

- While the unification of Italy was achieved mainly through foreign assistance, that of Germany was achieved by the military strength of the Prussian army.
- The unification of Germany was supported by the economic unity of the German states as a result of the customs union which was established by 1844. This was not the case in Italy.
- The sensitivity of the pope's position, which was an obstacle in the Italian unification was absent in the German unification.
- The Italian unification struggle took a long time (1859 – 1871) while the German unification struggle took a shorter time (1864-1871).
- The Italian unification was achieved at the expense of some Italian states like Nice which was given to France while no German state was lost during unification efforts.

14) Some people claim that the long-Distance Trade was profitable for all people involved in it, though there are other people who denied that. With understandable reasons evaluate the statement.

Introduction: 2marks

Body 7points x3marks

Conclusion 2marks

The Long-Distance Trade was Profitable because of the following reasons:

- ✓ It exposed the East Africa to the outside World thus making trade contacts with Arabia, Europe and America.

- ✓ It led to the monetization of the East economy, the use of cowrie's shells as a medium of exchange.
- ✓ Individuals and communities were made rich e.g. among the Nyamwezi.
- ✓ It led to cultural transformation in East Africa, for instance the Islamic region, Swahili language became the business language, Arabic ways of dressing, etc.
- ✓ Rise of new empires like Eastern Congo of Tipu Tipu.
- ✓ Change of the standards of living of Yao, Kamba, Nyamwezi and Cokwe Societies.
- ✓ Increase of food crops like rice, wheat and sugar Cane around Tabora.
- ✓ Many people attracted in this trade settled in some states of East Africa. This increase in population stimulated the need of food production.
- ✓ It led to the spread of Islam in the East Africa.
- ✓ The economic expansion supported by new military techniques and tactics learnt from the Ngoni, some East African communities emerged into new political states like Unyanyembe, Urambo and Ukimbu.
- ✓ The expansion of their territories at the expense of the small and weak states. Moreover, the trade tycoons who dominated and controlled main trade routes and activities became the political leaders of some new formed states. For instance, Mirambo and Nyungu ya Mawe became the leaders in Nyamwezi kingdom.
- ✓ Due to the trade caravan and participation in Long Distance Trade, many Africans from interior of Africa were initiated to the Swahili and Swahili language. This facilitated the spread of Swahili to many parts of East and Central Africa.
- ✓ It led to the intermarriages between the Arabs and Africans
- ✓ It led to the urbanization or growth of towns like Mombasa, Tabora, Ujiji, Katonga, Mumia, Malindi and Bagamoyo among others.

However, it was not profitable because of the following reasons:

- ✓ During this trade, there were slave raids which often resulted into the war
- ✓ The Long-Distance Trade contributed to the depopulation of Africa by reducing its population
- ✓ In general, economic activities were disrupted in Africa because able craftsmen and farmers were deported. The local traditional goods were no longer produced, have been replaced by the Arab and European products
- ✓ The breakdown of family and tribal ties produced bands of ruthless bandits who went around terrorizing the countryside making it impossible to engage in profitable occupations.

- ✓ Excessive use of elephant, Leopard, rhinoceros' products like ivory or horns and their skins, Zebras for the skins, tortoises for sale in East and Central Africa. Hence the extinction
- ✓ There was the decline of agriculture
- ✓ There was the decline of local industries
- ✓ Displacement of people due to the insecurity in the region
- ✓ It led to the colonization of East Africa by Europeans
- ✓ There was the destruction of properties due to constant wars

15) Elaborate the consequences of early European Explorations

Introduction: 2marks

Body 7points x3marks

Conclusion 2marks

- ✓ Europeans imported sugar, gold, silver, tobacco and other goods.
- ✓ Improvement of standards of living
- ✓ It led to the expansion of Christianity in other parts of the world
- ✓ It led to the culture exchange
- ✓ It led to the discovery of new route to India
- ✓ It encouraged the development of industries and Banking industries
- ✓ Expansion of empires
- ✓ Spread of wars in colonies.
- ✓ Mineral exploitation
- ✓ Development of mercantilism.
- ✓ Emergency of factory system
- ✓ Discovery of biodiversity
- ✓ Spread of Christianity

Negative consequences

- ✓ It led to the beginning of slave trade in Africa
- ✓ It led to overexploitation of African resources
- ✓ It led to the spread of wars in the colonies as the colonial rivalries

Answer:

- ✓ They wanted to restore peace in the continental of Europe which was disrupted or destroyed by the French revolutionary wars and Napoleonic wars.
- ✓ The Vienna congress wanted to stop the spread of revolutionary ideas from France to other countries of Europe.
- ✓ They wanted to restore legitimate rulers of Europe back to power. These were the traditional monarchs who were removed from power by the French revolution and Napoleon I Bonaparte E.g.: Ferdinand I of Naples, Ferdinand VII of Spain
- ✓ The congressmen wanted to prevent further French aggression: since 1789, France was aggressive and ended up conquering many states in Europe hence to stop this.
- ✓ There was need to restore the balance of power in Europe. So that, no state could become so strong to dominate others like France had done under Napoleon
- ✓ There was also need of redrawing the map of Europe by reducing the boundaries of France to these of 1792. After the French revolution, France conquered many countries and become the biggest empire in Europe
- ✓ The Vienna congress aimed at punishing the countries that had collaborated with Napoleon and rewarding the states that had resisted him
- ✓ There was also need to promote trade and ensure economic expansion among the states of Europe. Trade had declined in the past years due to the violation of many trade treaties big some powers of Europe.
