

Section A: Comprehension and vocabulary (30 marks)

Read the passage below carefully and then answer the questions that follow.

It started when second hand clothes were in fashion in Rwanda a few years ago. One day, Ms. Mukandoli, a busy mum and a loving wife, went shopping for nice second hand clothes. After a few hours of searching, she came home exhausted and disappointed because everyone was struggling to pick nice ones.

In 2016, the government of Rwanda increased the price of second hand clothes, so many women found it hard to find the right outfit. "I will help them," – thought Ms. Mukandoli. With very little money, no connections in the fashion world and a community who laughed at her idea that it was not realistic, she persisted and decided to start up her own business.

Ms. Mukandoli designed her first collection of twenty clothing items, bought suitable materials and a sewing machine. Ms. Mukandoli was a tailor herself. Her sitting room turned into a workshop. When the collection was ready, Ms. Mukandoli took them to fashion shops. To her surprise, they bought the whole collection at once.

When they asked her about the name of her company, Ms. Mukandoli looked at them, smiled and said: "Inyarwanda". Today many people have fallen in love with products from Ms. Mukandoli. She has hired other tailors and expanded her business. Other people have copied her and now clothes made in Rwanda are on high demand across the country.

Creative careers such as writers, journalists, and graphic designers allow individuals to express ideas and stories that inform, entertain, or inspire others. Meanwhile, careers in public safety, like police officers and fire fighters, involve protecting communities and maintaining order.
